Deer at Country Club Golf Course Sunday Vanishes Mysteriously

What you won't see on a golf course early in the morning!

That's probably what Dr. W. H. Limes was thinking about 6:45 o'clock Sunday morning, when he awoke and looked out the window of his home across the street from the County Club golf course.

He first noticed that it had been raining. But there was something else which distracted his view. At first, Dr. Limes thought he saw an overgrown goat grazing on the golf course.

On second look, he saw that it was a deer. To make sure he wasn't dreaming he called to his wife and two daughters, Mary Jane and Carolyn, to take a look and verify his claim.

They saw the same thing, so Limes went to the phone and called the police to see if anyone had lost a pet deer. They said they hadn't received any calls on a deer, but would come out to the golf course and take a look at it.

They found the deer had moved on, but a little search revealed that it had found its way over to a pasture and was among some cattle.

"It was a pretty good sized deer," Limes said. "It should have weighed about 150 pounds." He couldn't tell whether it was a buck or a doe, since most deer have shed their horns this time of year.

The deer has moved on elsewhere, and no one has reported seeing it since its visit to "the club."

When the surprised Limes family first saw the deer it was picking its way leisurely along the No. 2 fairway which parallels the Greenfield Road. Then it wandered west across the dewy landscape toward the No. 9 tee in the

Commissioners Take Action

$1,000 Appropriated For City Recreation

An appropriation of $1,000 from the Eymann fund, placed in the hands of the Fayette County commissioners, was voted at the commissioners' regular Monday morning session for the Washington C. H. recreation program for this year.

This has been done annually for several years by the commissioners in a desire to help the city recreation commission provide a program for all classes of children during the summer vacation months in various parts of the city, usually close to school grounds.

Richard Waters and Walter F. Rettig, members of the City Recreation Commission, appeared before the board of commissioners to ask for the appropriation and to explain the program which is considered a deterrent to juvenile delinquency.

The Recreation Commission last week appointed Ronald Guinn and Harry Townsend of the Washington High School coaching staff as co-directors of the recreation program. They will replace Fred Pierson who has been director for the past four years and who this year will manage the Washington Swimming Pool.

Kleever Ditch Contract

The contract for construction and material for the Kleever County Ditch in Paint Township was awarded Monday morning by the county commissioners to Glenn Garring of Wayne Township.

His bid was the only one received. It amounted to $2,157.03, of which $1,041.92 was for labor and $1,115.11 for material. The ditch will be 4,400 feet long, and the contract specifies completion by July 2. The engineer's estimate for the work was $2,216.40.

More Fire Protection

In their precautionary desire to provide ample protection to county property against fire the county commissioners Monday morning ordered several new American-LaFrance fire extinguishers. Some are to be placed in Memorial Hall, others in the county highway garage and more in the Court House. One is to be placed in the sheriff's car to supplement one already carried, to be used in case the sheriff is called out on a highway auto fire where life and property might be saved.

The new extinguishers were ordered following a complete check-up of needs, made by Emil Wilson who presented his report to the commissioners Monday. He also serviced all present fire extinguishers already in place on county property.

Ditch Hearing

The commissioners Monday scheduled the Dice-Slagle Ditch in Jasper Township for viewing on June 5 and the hearing for interested property owners at the Court House on Monday afternoon, June 11.

Civilian Defense Apathy Assailed

WASHINGTON, May 7—(P)—Civil Defense Administrator Millard Caldwell today urged a "nationwide crusade against apathy."

"We must make it clear that there is a defense against the atomic bomb—not perfect, but a good one," Caldwell said in a speech prepared for the opening session of a two-day civil defense conference.

Caldwell declared too many people in this country fall into one of two groups—those who are apathetic about the A-bomb and its effects or those who are beset "by fear and helplessness."

"Our problem is to get those people to understand that an atomic attack does not spell doom—to understand that by taking certain simple precautions most people can continue to live and to work," he said. "We must persuade them to stop defying the first law of nature—that of survival."

Meanderings

By Wash Fayette

A large number of Fayette Counties motored into the hill counties over the week-end, and found an abundance of beauty among the hills.

Red bud, dogwood, hawthorne, and some other shrubs were in bloom, and a wide range of wildflowers were blooming in the woods and along the roadways.

The weather was a little cool, but everyone enjoyed the motoring trip, where nature was at its best.

The flowering shrubs and trees and a large number of wildflowers will be in flower for another at least, so that those who are lovers of nature will find plenty of beauty and the hill areas generally.

However, it is not necessary to drive long distances into the hills to enjoy the flowering trees and wildflowers. They can be found in abundance along Paint Creek, starting at Rock Bridge, five miles south of Washington C. H. and continuing to Rock Mills.

This drive is, without doubt, the most beautiful in Fayette County during the flowering season.

People are cautioned against pulling up or destroying the wildflowers, most of which are found on private property where no trespassing is permitted.

23 Meet Death In B-36 Crash

Gusty Wind Blamed In Part for Disaster

ALBUQUERQUE, May 7—(P)—A giant 8-36 bomber crashed in flames as it tried to land at Kirtland Air Force Base Sunday killing 23 airmen. The explosion made the base resemble a junkyard.

It was the fifth and worst B-36 crash since the air force put the 139-ton, six-engined bombers—the world's largest—into operation in August 1946. The toll of 23 dead is just three less than the combined deaths in the other four.

Col. Perry C. Griffith, Kirtland commander, said the flaming wreckage "looked like a burning oil field. Flames shot up almost 200 feet in the air."

"I didn't want to look," said Lt. William S. Knipple, "I turned my back." Knipple is one of three members of the 188th Fighter Squadron who watched the crash.

The two survivors were in critical condition at Sandia Special Weapons Base Hospital. Sandia adjoins Kirtland.

Twenty-two men were killed outright. The 23rd died at Sandia a few minutes after. The bomber, almost as long as a city block, had just finished a three-hour flight from Carswell Air Force Base, Fort Worth, Tex.

13 Thrown Clear

Kirtland firefighters arrived at the scene—some two blocks from the Municipal Airport Terminal—less than four minutes after the crashup (12:30 P. M., MST). The three injured and bodies of 10

Mobilization Plans Balked In Committee

WASHINGTON, May 7—(P)—The Senate banking committee today threw overboard, for the president at least, President Truman's proposal to impose rent controls on stores, office space and other commercial property.

As the Senate banking committee began 20 days of hearings on Mr. Truman's request for a two-year extension and revision of the defense production act, Chairman Maybank announced the committee's finding, reached at a closed session.

There will be no testimony on commercial rents because there has not been sufficient study of the question, Maybank said, written briefs will be received, however, and the question will be left to the end of the hearing "if it is taken up at all."

Maybank also declared his personal opposition to the beef price rollback announced by the Office of Price Stabilization, and declared he was against "tampering in any way" with the parity provisions which govern ceilings on food.

"The effect of the beef order will be to cut back production, thus defeating the primary purpose of the defense production act," Maybank said in a prepared statement.

Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson was called as the committee's first witness. The present law, which includes wage-price control authority, expires June 30.

Death Toll of Typhoon In Philippines Is 10

MANILA, May 7—(P)—The death toll of a typhoon that roared across the Philippine Islands Saturday rose today to at least ten.

Seven other persons, missing more than 48 hours are presumed dead. Scores were injured and approximately 10,000 were homeless. Crop damage was high—90 percent on Mindoro Island.

Woman Is Hurlled 150 feet to Roof Of Barn in Crash

PLYMOUTH, Ind., May 7—(P)—The impact of an auto crash Saturday night hurled a young woman 150 feet through the air to a 35-foot high barn roof, killing her almost instantly.

State Police said Mrs. Agnes Grise, 21, of Bremen, Ind., was thrown through the windshield of her husband's car when it plunged into a ditch.

They said the husband, Robert Grise, 23, said that brakes on the car had locked and that he had been traveling about 60 miles an hour.

American Troops Land on Iceland

Move Is Surprise And Purpose Vague

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, May 7—(P)—A contingent of American troops arrived by air today at Keflavik airport, 30 miles from this capital, for the announced purpose of aiding Iceland's defense under the North Atlantic Alliance. The number of troops was not announced.

In Washington, defense officials told reporters the initial detachment consisted of about 200 men under the command of Brig. Gen. Edward John McGaw of Philadelphia.

(In European capitals, the opinion was expressed that it was only a small contingent of American troops, probably technicians for the most part, sent to survey possible air bases in the northern Atlantic outpost of western defenses.)

Arrival of the troops apparently was no surprise to the people of this old island republic, since it

Brown Wants Probe Of Charge of Plan To Aid Red China

Rep. Clarence J. Brown, who represents Fayette County as part of the seventh Ohio district in the national Congress, wants Congress to investigate charges that the State Department "is conniving with the British government to help the Chinese Communists."

Rep. Brown, a Republican, lives in Blanchester, when not taking care of his official duties in the nation's capital. He is a publisher and farmer as well as a lawmaker.

He demanded the Senate armed services and foreign relations committee include the situation in the Far Eastern policy investigation.

He said the British stepped up natural rubber exports to Red China from 27,500 tons during all of 1949 to 120,000 tons in the nine months ended last March 31.

Rescued from Lake

CLEVELAND, May 7—(P)—Adrift on Lake Erie for seven chilly hours in a motor launch, six men attracted the attention of the crew of a lake freighter yesterday by waving their shirts. The ship, Charles Dixon, radioed their position to the coast guard who towed the boat to shore.

The Plain Dealer said its investigation had uncovered Gordon used the jail and sheriff's phones for long-distance calls, one reportedly to Las Vegas, Nev. home of the Cleveland-owned Desert Inn Casino.

He had food delivered to him by a Chardon night-club operator.

Undergoes Operation

TULSA, Okla., May 7—(P)—Screen Star Shirley Temple underwent an emergency appendectomy last night after being stricken while driving through Tulsa.

Attendants at Hillcrest Hospital described the condition of the 23-year-old movie actress as good.

She was driving yesterday afternoon with her husband, Charles A. Black, when the appendicitis attack seized her.

Deputy Sheriff Named by Hays

City Policeman Gets Appointment

Policeman Roy C. (Skip) Underwood, has been appointed deputy sheriff, succeeding Deputy Sheriff Charles Foster, Sheriff Orland Hays said Monday.

Roy C. Underwood

Underwood has been a member of the police force here since June 1, 1945, and has not yet tendered his resignation to accept the post of deputy sheriff.

Foster has been out as deputy sheriff for two months or more. He was appointed to the position of patrolman on the city police force.

Sheriff Hays said that Underwood will take up his new duties May 16.

Husbands of Victims Catch Three Rapists

CHICAGO, May 7—(P)—Two mothers complained they were raped by three men early Sunday. Their husbands turned detectives and helped police seize three youths.

Police said the two husbands, told by their wives that their violators had boasted they could be found at a south side theater, watched for them.

They pounded upon Harold Hillier, 19, a grocery clerk, and beat him until police intervened.

Detective John O'Donnell said Hillier named two other men, William Doran, 22, and Ralph Liljebald, 17, Doran and Liljebald were taken into custody early today at their homes. The three are held without charge.

Detective O'Donnell said the three men told him the two women submitted willingly on an automobile ride.

Gambler Pampered In Jail, Is Charge

CLEVELAND, May 7—(P)—The Cleveland Plain Dealer said today George Gordon, manager and owner of the defunct Pettibone Club, has been "pampered," while serving a 60-day term in the Geauga County jail.

Gordon on Wednesday will wind up a 60-day sentence he received in March after pleading guilty to 25 counts of gambling and resisting state liquor agents. He had been sought for eight months before he surrendered.

The Plain Dealer said its investigation had uncovered Gordon used the jail and sheriff's phones for long-distance calls, one reportedly to Las Vegas, Nev. home of the Cleveland-owned Desert Inn Casino.

He had food delivered to him by a Chardon night-club operator.

Korea War 'About over,' Rumor Now

BY OLEN CLEMENTS

TOKYO, May 7—(P)—South Korean infantrymen pushed the ends of the battle line northward today. Other UN forces took up the slack in between while armored patrols probed for withdrawing Reds.

South Koreans pressed across the 38th Parallel toward Red-held Inje in the east. Other Republican troops moved the western anchor of the Korea fighting line further northwest of Seoul.

A tank-infantry column rumbled through Chunchon on the east-central front Monday, and a mile beyond, without meeting opposition.

Other armored groups fanned out all along the center. They found no Reds.

Communists sniped on tank expeditions in the west Monday. A U. S. Eighth Army communique said Reds reportedly fired rockets at tanks east of Uijongbu.

Planes Bomb Reds

American jets left their rockets behind for a mass bomb attack on Red troops, supply and transport centers north of the Communist capital of Pyongyang. Thirty-five Shooting Stars made bomb raids in three waves on railway yards in the Suncheon area.

The Pyongyang radio claimed six UN planes were shot down and five airmen captured. The Allied command does not comment on Red propaganda claims. The Red broadcast also listed these asserted wartime UN losses: 65,000 troops captured, 326,000 casualties, 1,900 planes destroyed or damaged.

Red ground forces made their strongest bid northwest of Seoul. South Korean troops made a limited advance against North Korea. (Please turn to Page Ten)

MacArthur Sends Private Airplane Back to Uncle Sam

NEW YORK, May 7—(P)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur said today he had ordered the return of his four-engine airplane, "Bataan," to the Defense Department because he feels it is "no longer appropriate" for him to keep it.

He made the announcement through Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, his spokesman.

Whitney said the crew of the Constellation would fly it from Idlewild Airport here to Washington later today.

At a news conference at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel, Whitney quoted MacArthur as saying:

"A great plane, a great crew, a great pilot. As it flies out of my life, I feel I am losing something of inestimable value—an old friend."

The chiefs of foreign diplomatic missions arrived at the palace at 11 a. m. today, bringing gifts from their heads of state.

200 Killed In Quake in El Salvador

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador, May 7—(P)—At least 200 persons were reported killed in an earthquake yesterday in the cities of Jucupa and Chinameca.

Jucupa is about 90 miles and Chinameca about 92 miles east of this capital. Jucupa has a population of about 12,000 and Chinameca of about 17,000.

The strong quakes, which began at 5 P. M. yesterday, destroyed many homes and public buildings. Many persons were said to have been buried in ruins. The exact number of dead is not yet known, but authorities estimate about 200 are buried in the debris.

Nearby towns, Nueva Guadalupe, Santiago De Maria, Usulután and Caserios, east of the Lempa river, also suffered great damage.

All the towns are situated in the neighborhood of San Miguel volcano, but it did not erupt. The quake was attributed to underground activity of the volcano, however.

Pay Raised Sought For Men in Service

WASHINGTON, May 7—(P)—Rep. Van Zandt (R-Pa.) said he would introduce in the House today a bill authorizing cost-of-living adjustments in the base pay of armed forces personnel.

Van Zandt said he would propose tying military pay to the labor department's cost of living index which some labor unions and private industries use in computing pay raises under the so-called "escalator" clauses in wage contracts.

MacArthur Contentions

Then, in later discussion of MacArthur, he said it is "completely understandable and, in fact, at times commendable that a theater commander should become so wholly wrapped up in his own aims and responsibilities that some of the directives received by him from higher authority are not those that he would have written for himself."

"There is nothing new about this sort of thing in our military history. What is new, and what has brought about the necessity for General MacArthur's removal, is the wholly unprecedented situation of a local commander publicly expressing his displeasure at and his disagreement with the foreign and military policy of the United States."

MacArthur's discharge was blamed in large part on a letter he wrote Rep. Martin (R-Mass.), endorsing the latter's views for use of Chinese Nationalist troops against the Chinese Reds.

MacArthur Plan Called Risk for All-out Conflict

Public Opposition To Government Was Cause of Ouster

WASHINGTON, May 7—(P)—Secretary of Defense Marshall contended to senators today that Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Korean war proposals would risk "an all-out war with the Soviet Union."

But under questioning from Senator Russell (D-Ga.), Marshall said this country is now "discussing" with other nations one of the deposed Far Eastern commander's recommendations, a naval blockade of Red China. He added: "We have not brought the issue up as a formal proposition for them to refuse."

Replying to MacArthur's attacks on the administration's Far Eastern policies, Marshall also said:

1. The Truman administration's unwavering policy is to deny Nationalist-held Formosa to the Chinese Communists and to oppose seating of the Reds in the United Nations.

2. A Jan. 12 memorandum of the joint chiefs of staff, which MacArthur contended supported his proposals, for fighting the Korean war by direct action against Communist China, was drafted for use if American troops had to withdraw from Korea.

3. The memorandum was discarded when it became apparent American troops had turned the tide of battle.

4. The memorandum contained 16 courses of recommended action, only four of which were quoted by MacArthur in his testimony last week to senators inquiring into his dismissal as Far Eastern commander and policy dispute involved in it.

5. MacArthur was fired because of "basic differences of judgment" not only with the president, but the chiefs of staff and Marshall himself.

Secretary Marshall indicated to senators today the United States stands ready to "initiate damaging naval and air attacks" on Communist China if she strikes at American forces outside Korea.

He also said he and President Truman approved last December a procedure for "hot pursuit" of enemy planes into Manchuria, but the other 13 United Nations with forces in Korea vetoed it.

Risk of War Cited

Testifying at a closed session with his "combed" testimony made public later, Marshall said MacArthur's plan would risk an all-out world conflict "even at the expense of losing our Allies and wrecking the coalition of free peoples throughout the world."

MacArthur has proposed intensification of the economic squeeze against Red China, blockade of its coasts, air operations over Manchuria and use of Chinese Nationalist troops from Formosa.

Marshall said MacArthur "would have us, on our own initiative, carry the conflict beyond Korea against the mainland of Communist China, both from the sea and from the air."

"He would have us accept the risk of involvement not only in an extension of the war with Red China, but in an all-out war with the Soviet Union," the defense secretary said.

MacArthur Contentions

Then, in later discussion of MacArthur, he said it is "completely understandable and, in fact, at times commendable that a theater commander should become so wholly wrapped up in his own aims and responsibilities that some of the directives received by him from higher authority are not those that he would have written for himself."

Five Foreign Students Talk At Madison Mills

Those from China Differ on County's Condition under Reds

Five foreign students from Wilmington College helped give residents in the Madison Mills community a little better insight into international understanding Sunday.

The students appeared on a panel at the Madison Mills Methodist Church then became personally acquainted with churchgoers Sunday afternoon during a potluck dinner.

Korea and China came in for their share of attention since three members of the international panel were from China. They included: Ming Wong, McAfee Montgomery and Jessmin Sze.

Other members of the panel were: Lillian Chuyong Chew of Hawaii and Glenville Watson of Jamaica. They were all introduced to the audience by David Larson, the moderator.

The panel discussion was held in connection with the observance of Rural Life Sunday.

The youths from China felt that once the United States crossed the 38th parallel they were the aggressors.

Miss Sze, whose father is a college professor in Hong Kong, said her family left China before the Reds came. She said it would be "suicide" to return to her homeland.

Differ on Views

Miss Wong said her parents are in a displaced persons camp. She described the happy family life of the Chinese before the Communists.

Montgomery did not share the same view of the condition in which people in his homeland found themselves following the arrival of the Reds. He said that they now get 50 percent of the crops they raise on land in China compared to but 10 percent which they got under the war lords.

Miss Chew described her native Hawaii, saying that the Hawaiians farmed their land much the way rural people in America do.

Watson said his country, Jamaica, is settled entirely by foreign people. They have small farms, which they work in a primitive manner. Pineapples and peanuts are main crops.

The Grange members and church members said they obtained better understanding of the lands and peoples which the members of the panel represented as a result of the Rural Life Sunday program.

Marshall Outlines

(Continued from Page One) eral MacArthur had grown so far out of sympathy with the established policies of the United States that there was doubt as to whether he could any longer be permitted to exercise the authority in making decisions that normal command functions would assign to a theater commander. In this situation, there was no other recourse but to relieve him.

MacArthur, when bringing up the Jan. 12 memorandum of the joint chiefs, had cited it as backing up his statement in his address to Congress on April 19 that he understood the joint chiefs "fully shared" his views.

Marshall's Explanation Marshall gave this statement about it:

"At the time this memorandum was prepared, we were faced with the very real possibility of having to evacuate our forces from Korea."

"The proposals advanced by the joint chiefs of staff x x x were put forward as tentative courses of action to be pursued if and when this possibility came closer to reality."

He said he sent the memorandum

Apparently satisfied with its tour of the golf course, it leaped the fence to join the cattle in the pasture to the west. After that, it just disappeared.

That was the hazy itinerary given by Tony Capuana, the golf pro at the club.

Deer are reported occasionally in Fayette County, but they really are a rarity. This is the second time within five years that one has been reported in the vicinity of the Country Club and Wilson School.

Where they come from and where they go is conjectural. The accepted theory is that they stray up from the Roosevelt game preserve in Scioto County or the nearby hill country far to the south and east of here. . . and that they probably drift back to where they came from.

Never has there been any report of one being killed here since the early days of settlement.

Grain Market

CHICAGO, May 7.—(P)—Grains slid lower today despite the fact that a timid rally toward the close reduced the largest losses.

The market sold off early on news the American ambassador in Moscow was conferring with the Russian deputy foreign minister, at the latter's request. This created a mild "peace scare."

Later, it was reported that the Russian handed the American ambassador a long note relating to the Japanese peace treaty.

Grain news itself was meager, consisting of a little export business to Great Britain and a continued heavy run of cash grain at major terminals.

Financial Market

NEW YORK, May 7.—(P)—The stock market slipped into lower ground today but there was only a fair amount of selling.

There were some drops of around $1 but for the most part the losses were confined to small fractions.

Rail stocks were among those which showed the largest losses with Sante Fe off more than $2 at one time. Southern Railway was down as much as $1 at one point and Chesapeake and Ohio and Southern Pacific were off fractionally. Motors, oils and steels were on the losing side of the ledger with Bethlehem Steel down $1.12 at one time and Chrysler off $1.

Data on Britain Now Available

Suicides Fewer Despite Austerity

By JULIAN JACOBSON
LONDON, May 7 —(AP)— Anybody can prove most anything about Britain by citing figures newly published by the central statistical office.

Any Briton, or anybody else, who wants to lay out 17 shillings, six pence ($2.45) can trot over to his majesty's stationery office and buy a 312-page volume that will tell him almost everything except how much toothpaste the average Briton squeezes on his toothbrush.

Even this information may be included in some future Annual Abstract of Statistics since new tables and figures are added each year "to make each new edition more fully descriptive of all facets of British life and livelihood."

The new tables included this year record -- among other things -- the barrels of beer drunk, the number of meals served in restaurants and the fertility of British womanhood.

There were 27,000,000 bulk barrels of beer drunk in Britain in 1949 (the last year covered by the report); 231,100,000 restaurant meals were served that year (including high teas, low teas and snacks); and there were 68.9 live births per 1,000 women in 1948 as compared to 53.6 live births in 1939.

The report clearly shows how Britain is becoming a nation of older people. In 1949 there were three times as many people over 65 than in 1871. The 1949 figure was 5,351,000 compared to 1,334,000. The total between those years increased 85 percent, with 50,363,000 population estimated as of mid-1949.

Although the number of deaths from cancer continued to rise, there was a marked fall in deaths from pneumonia.

Another table showed a decline in indictable offenses in England and Wales in 1949, but there was an increase in sexual offenses, fraud and crimes of violence.

Drink got more people in trouble with the police in 1949, but the total was only three-fifths of pre-war figures.

The number of persons seeking divorce in 1949, was the lowest since 1945--but the 1949 figure was most frequently given as the reason for divorce. In 1949 desertion moved into first place.

Despite austerity, fewer people (5,118) committed suicide in 1948 than in 1938 (5,794).

Thirty-three persons were found guilty of murder in England and Wales in 1949, two persons in northern Ireland and none in Scotland. The total of 35 murder convictions was less than the year before (45), but higher than in 1938 (25). The number of people in jail jumped from 17,067 in 1947 to 19,765 in 1948, in England and Wales.

The number of eating places in Britain doubled between May 1941 and November 1949, when 221,900 were open to cope with the growing national habit of eating out to supplement home rations.

The total working population of Britain remained around the 23,000,000 mark between 1948 and 1950. In 1938 it was 19,473,000. There were three times more men than women working in 1938, but only about twice as many last year.

There were 690,000 men and women in the armed forces last year, compared with 385,000 men in 1938.

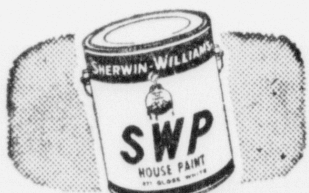

More than 1,710,000 persons were registered as unemployed in 1938. This figure was 274,000 in 1950.

Condition of the people of India is evidenced by the photo at right, showing famine sufferers of Melramnathi, in Madras state. They are living on roots of weeds.

Starvation diet leaves adults emaciated, bones pushing out against flesh. With children, limbs and abdomens puff up. According to a survey by "CARE," the overall food grain ration in Indian cities is nine ounces a day per person. Dieticians estimate it takes at least 24 ounces a day to sustain a working man. Food packages can be sent to India from the United States via "CARE."

Defense Plant Expansion Program Is Being Checked by Government

NEW YORK, May 7—(AP)— The government is tightening the reins on the galloping defense plant expansion program.

"It's like driving a team of a hundred horses," says an executive in the National Production Authority. "It's no good if one horse gets ahead of the others. We've got to keep defense production expanding evenly, and still give a fair shake to essential consumer industries, too."

First tightening of the reins takes two forms. The petroleum administration for defense will consider no more applications for tax concessions to expand basis petroleum refining facilities. And all structural steel is to be allocated during the second half of the year, to fit the expansion needs of the nation's economy as NPA sees them.

"Plant expansion will have to be scheduled to spread out material shortages, such as structural steel," says the NPA official. NPA has been flooded with applications for certificates of necessity under which tax concessions are granted --in the form of rapid write-off for tax purposes of the costs of expanding or building plants needed for the defense program.

Program on Schedule

The NPA official says that generally speaking the military program is nicely on schedule. Material scarcities are far less acute than last fall, he says, and at present less than five percent of the defense production program is being held back by metal scarcities. Tight supplies of columbium, aluminum and alloy metals still plague, but that problem too is being handled, he contends.

The United States is also working out a plan to divide scarce materials among domestic users and our foreign allies. Mobilization Director Charles Wilson is working on that and other problems in his current talks with European officials.

Essential military needs will come first, both here and abroad, followed by programs to increase supplies of strategic materials. The plan is aimed at quieting the present turmoil in which several nations are competing and outbidding each other for the world's short supplies of many war-essential materials.

The nation's banks are cooperating in the defense effort by increasing the total of their loans for the defense program and curtail their loans for carrying inventories of raw materials, according to the national voluntary credit restraint committee of the Federal Reserve System.

Brake on Inflation

This is designed primarily as a brake on inflation, but the banks' voluntary action in channelling loans along lines the government deems helpful for the defense program is also seen in banking circles as giving the NPA a strong helping hand in tightening the reins on plant expansion to keep all parts of the defense and civilian economy pulling evenly.

The curb on oil refining expansion came as a surprise to many in the petroleum industry where leaders have been stressing the need to expand greatly the production and refining capacity of the industry to meet both military needs and the rapidly increasing civilian demand. Crude oil production has risen to new peaks this year and the search for more oil is being pressed.

The PAD's limitation on refining expansion specifically exempted any slowdown on basic expansion of the oil production end of the industry, such as pipe lines or storage facilities, or any slowdown in expanding refining facilities for producing aviation gas or such special products as butylenes needed in the defense program.

But PAD says that as for basic oil refining itself, the government's goal is well in sight--a million barrel a day increase in refining capacity by the end of 1953. PAD says it already has applications on file that will do the trick. For a time, at least, PAD says that's enough, and the plant expansion program stress can turn to other industries.

Drummer in Orchestra Collapses and Dies

West had been with trumpeter Roy Eldridge's jazz band since 1936 and was playing an engagement with Eldridge at Lindsay's Sky Bar here.

Federal Dispersal Plan Is Opposed

WASHINGTON, May 7 —(AP)— Rep. McGregor (R-Ohio) figured an amendment the House put in an appropriations bill yesterday will prevent dispersal of government agencies.

The House public works committee, on which McGregor serves, some time ago killed a bill to authorize government agencies to be dispersed within a 20-mile radius of Washington.

McGregor yesterday noticed one item of $109,531,680 in the proposed 1951-52 appropriations for the general services administration listed as for several purposes, including "moving government agencies".

He got the House before it passed the measure to limit the moving to "within the District of Columbia".

President's Budget Faces More Slashes

WASHINGTON, May 7 —(AP)— Economy forces in the House today pointed to a walloping 96 percent cut in President Truman's emergency funds as evidence that they're pushing ahead in their drive to reduce government spending.

The president's funds came under the axe yesterday when the House passed and sent to the Senate a $6,144,450,355 appropriations bill financing 27 independent federal agencies for the year starting next July 1.

The total was $698,137,116 less than Mr. Truman has asked. And $24,000,000 of that was slashed from the president's own emergency money request. The fund is given the president to meet emergency needs arising from domestic or foreign developments not provided for in specific appropriations.

Another blow was dealt the administration when a 181 to 113 vote reduced to 5,000 the number of new public housing units that may be started in fiscal year 1952. While the law authorizes 135,000 units to be started in any year actual work depends upon the amount of money appropriated and limitations in the appropriation bill. The president already had whittled the program down to 75,000 units and the appropriations committee cut it to 50,000. A coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats knocked it down to 5,000.

Americans Want Peace Russians To Be Told

WASHINGTON, May 7 —(AP)— The Senate has approved and sent to the House a bi-partisan resolution telling the people of Russia this country wants friendship and peace with all the world.

Sponsored by Senator McMahon (D-Conn.) and 22 other senators, the resolution was approved unanimously yesterday. It is designed to counter Soviet propaganda that Americans are "war mongers."

Will Resentment Become a Tidal Wave?

If the people here in Fayette County are a criterion by which to judge general public reaction as to what the MacArthur-Truman issue means, this episode is likely to have a much more far-reaching effect than many have thought possible.

Washington C. H. is a normal and reasonably conservative city. Fayette County with its rural sections and villages represents an area of steady, substantial people who do not easily become overly excited; they are generally good judges of the relative importance of incidents as they happen.

What most any observer here will find, if he makes quiet investigation, is a deeply rooted resentment over what has happened. There are a few, of course, who criticize MacArthur, but it is probable that over 75 percent of the residents around here, believe he is doing his country a distinct and worthy service.

What is true in this region must also be true quite generally over the whole nation.

Now what is the reaction of the politically-minded Truman administration leaders down around Washington D. C.?

It is stated by newsmen and others that, though the more important henchmen of President Truman are startled by the public response to date, they are not inclined to be deeply disturbed.

Reports indicate that most of these satellites, revolving round and round in the Washington whirligig, regard this popular manifestation of public resentment over MacArthur, plus the evidence of distrust of the administration's attitude, as just a flash in the pan. The storm will quickly pass, they think, and the summer skies soon again will smile on President Harry and all his mink-coat entourage.

Some go farther. In Washington D. C. they argue that by giving "a good show" MacArthur is really helping the president. The demonstrations are seen as a safety valve, through which the mob blows off steam that might be explosive if bottled up.

That judgment, based on a wholly cynical view of human nature, could be correct. It may be that Americans, like the Romans in the days of their decadence, are now primarily interested in bread and circuses. It may be that millions of jobholders will never really bite the hand that feeds them and that MacArthur's return, in retrospect, will seem what the French call a divertissement.

Touching on this phase of the situation, the noted editor and Rhodes scholar, Felix Morley, has this to say:

"Such a conclusion comes naturally to those who for over eighteen years have increasingly assumed that the American people will meekly accept whatever the White House orders. When one considers how Americans have been cozened during these years--again, and again and again--it would not be surprising if they should now once more slip back into that apathetic acceptance of guileful promises on which executive tyranny has ever based its Machiavellian build-up.

"Yet there is something about the reception of MacArthur that really worries the bureaucrats, the Fair Deal columnists, the 'intellectuals' and all those who cluster round the fringes of the Welfare State.

"There is anxiety in Washington because MacArthur promises nothing. He does not even ask to lead us to a promised land. He gives no assurance of peace, and even less of prosperity. He merely says that we are in a desperate fix--and people cheer him to the echo in response.

"Here is a political anomaly, by current American standards. Washington at Valley Forge could call upon his ragged soldiers for ever greater sacrifice; Lincoln, with the Union tottering, could face up nobly to disaster; Churchill, with Britain's back against the wall could call for blood and sweat and tears. But that is not the New Deal--Fair Deal way of winning votes; that is not the Truman and the CIO technique.

"Could it be that Americans are not really as interested in personal 'security' as Mr. Truman thinks? Could it be that they are really ready to make sacrifices for the ideals that President Roosevelt put in mothballs eighteen years ago? Could it be that Douglas MacArthur with his natural dignity and unaffected eloquence, really comes closer to the common man than all the condescending duplicity of the state department?

"Those are the questions that have been raised by the return of the general whom this administration has vainly sought to humiliate. He cannot give the answers. But the people will. It is for us to decide whether this is all just an emotional outburst, as the White House hopes, or actually the beginning of an American Renaissance."

Among those who profit by the experiences of history, it is recalled that periodically, great waves of moral regeneration originate among the common people of this earth. If the conditions are right, and the provocation is serious, these waves build up, roll on and eventually sweep the beaches clear of the garbage and refuse with which political tourists have littered the clean sand. And then, as after a squall, the sun comes shining through again.

It appears likely that the White House feels confident that MacArthur has not launched a tidal wave. In this as in other estimates of the American character, it could be wrong.

Perhaps there are plans in the making of again bedazzling the public with some new offers of "something for nothing", or feeling sure that a world war next year (election year) will swing the American public behind a "stand by the president" movement.

MacArthur Brilliant under Fire

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK —(AP)— One of the surest tests of brilliance or genius is the ability to improvise.

That is as true of the soldier as it is of the poet.

And by that test alone--whether his views are right or wrong--General of the Army Douglas MacArthur has made one of the superb counterattacks of military history.

His appearances before the U. S. Senate have been classic performances in practically every way. No other witness appearing before a legislative or judicial body in our time has stirred a wider public interest.

Soldiers like to pick their battlefields and their weapons. They like to have all the troops under them they can garner. Only under such conditions do they feel best able to fulfill the purpose of war--which is the art of inflicting one's will upon "the enemy."

Making what may be the last campaign of his 52-year career --a campaign of justification--MacArthur has had none of these advantages.

The battlefield is relatively strange to him -- a Senate hearing. He probably hasn't been before a Senate committee since he was army chief-of-staff. His weapons are not guns and tanks but words, the oldest weapons in the world. He fights not with hundreds of thousands of soldiers under him, but with only one at his side -- Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, his advisor.

Despite these handicaps the 71-year-old warrior has waged one of the best extemporaneous battles in the long story of spoken warfare. Far from behind the fading old soldier he said he was, he has shown tremendous powers of pure physical endurance. He has worn down younger members of the Senate.

The use of words is not new to MacArthur, who was graduated with the highest scholastic record ever made at West Point. The "Purple Prose" of his self-written communiques in the last World War drew some criticism for being over-ornate.

But under the stress of interrogation his style has simplified and improved. He talks better than he writes. He has marshaled his words as well as he ever did his men. The knowledge of a lifetime has rolled from him as spontaneously as if his whole career had been spent on a, rostrum. Time after time, in reply to questions, he has tossed out eloquent verbal essays on the nature of nations and the ways of warfare that are worth separate publication in themselves.

His campaign has been a masterpiece of steady and remorseless attack in behalf of his Korean war program, whether under praise from Senate friends or under fire from Senate critics of his policies. He has remained completely cool; some of the heaviest siege guns of the Senate have been unable to rattle him.

In three days his testimony has equaled the word output of a good professional writer turns out in a good year.

Whether his last campaign turns out to be a tour de force or a victory -- whether his advice is followed or rejected -- it has shown the tremendous range of a first-class mind delivering the heaviest of a long and tremendous career.

It has been a demonstration worth the admiration of those other two masters of spoken English in our generation--Winston Churchill and the late Franklin D. Roosevelt. And it will be long remembered.

What about the Poor Koreans?

We are constantly being told how many Americans and Chinese are being killed in Korea. But what about the Koreans? How many Koreans have been killed? How many Korean women and children have been killed? How many babies have died of shell, of shock, of starvation?

This was must seem so unbelievable to the Koreans. First, their country is promised its independence. Then they are told that they are being united. Now they know they are being eternally united in death.

These great men who sit in Kremlins and Pentagons seem to have forgotten altogether that human beings are not lice; that every human creature upon this earth is entitled to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, to say the least.

But the great statesmen, the geniuses of the United Nations and the State Department and Downing Street had planned it differently and their plans go awry with each new twist of their immature minds. But people die. That is what is so important -- people die. Already more than 10,500 Americans have been killed in this stalemated war. We do not know how many Chinese have been killed; we do not know how many Koreans have been killed. And they are people, too.

Korea used to be called the hermit kingdom. They kept out of the so-called world and were unbothered. Now, they have been made a major item in the news. The word, Korea, appears in headlines. Even children have heard about Seoul and Inchon. But Koreans are being killed and

Patients Get Up Soon After Operation Now

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Of late years, great emphasis has been placed on what is known as early ambulation for surgical patients. Nowadays, patients who have had operations are allowed to lie in any position they prefer; they are encouraged to breathe deeply and to move their arms and legs as soon as they are conscious. In many cases they are urged to get out of bed very promptly, often within a day or so after surgery.

This does not mean, however, that such patients should be rushed out of the hospital as soon as they are able to get about. Where this mistaken course is followed, complications may develop which will send the patient back to the hospital for a longer stay than would have been necessary in the first place.

Out of Bed

It is also possible to overdo the business of getting patients out of bed early following an operation. The prime need for the first few days is rest of the affected parts, so that tissues will be given a chance to heal and bleeding to stop. Thus, though rest in bed is essential during this period, the patient may have deep breathing and leg exercises to keep up the circulation, thus preventing the development of blood clots which are often such a severe complication of surgery.

Another possible complication is atelectasis or collapse of the lungs. This is best warded off by deep breathing.

After about four days, when the wound is safe against strain, the patient may be allowed to be up. Usually he is carried to a chair and is permitted to sit up for a while, or he may, if he feels like it, take the few steps to the chair.

The natural desire of the patient is nearly always the best guide as to when he should walk. He should certainly not be urged to get up until he feels like doing so.

It has been estimated that having patients get up early following operation would increase, from 10 to 20 per cent, the capacity of a hospital, would reduce greatly the call on the nurses' time, and would be most beneficial to the patient. However, speeding up the patient's discharge from the hospital is not advisable since complications could then develop which would Seoul has become a heap of rubble.

Seoul has been the capital for nearly 600 years but now is a mound of broken stone. Who is so mighty that he can smash other people's worlds without mercy? And who is so all-powerful that he can say that Koreans can be wiped off the face of the earth, but that Chinese Communists may live in a sanctuary and that Soviet Russia is to be worshipped as Baal?

What heathen misery has come over us that we have lost all sense of pity, mercy, compassion; that the innocent are even more punished than the guilty; that homes are destroyed and temples desolated and the world has not even a tear for the wretched people whose only crime has been that they were born in the wrong place!

I sat recently with a group of those very sure men who never doubt that their machinations and tricks will bring them wealth and power. Some of them were of the kind of business men who live on the cupidity of politicians. They know how to arrange things. While they are generally regarded with great favor among the people because of their success, it has become increasingly clear to me over the years that when they sing paeans over a public official in unison, sure as thunder that public official will show up sooner or later as a crook or a charlatan or swine. As a reporter, I am always suspicious of the masters of the quick buck.

And now they hate General Douglas MacArthur. Whenever one meets these men, they speak badly of MacArthur. They whisper gossip about him. They say, "He got rich in the Philippines!" I like to say, "You got rich in New York by selling black market sugar or hot oil!" Of what avail is it to give them the lie? They are proud of their lies, just as some Americans are proud of running the China blockade. It is not their sons or grandsons who died because they ran the blockade.

And when their sons are involved. They will know some politician who will get desk jobs for their offspring in Washington for the duration of any war.

These people hate MacArthur because they fear that a moral upsurge might drive the present brood of fixers out of Washington and they will have to make new connections, which they may not be able to do.

Just as they never give Korea a thought, so they actually never give America a thought. They only give the dollar a thought. They are our weakness, for they produce an emptiness in the soul of anyone who listens to their obscene prattle.

Reds and Giants Split Twin Bill

No-Hit-No-Run Game Hurdled by Chambers

By JOE REICHLER
(By The Associated Press)

The Cincinnati Reds and the New York Giants were forced to settle for a split-off yesterday at New York. Virgil Stallcup slammed a 10th inning homer to give the Reds a 4-3 first game victory. Frank Smith was credited with the win, his second, after relieving Ewell Blackwell. Bobby Adams tied up the contest in the ninth on a two-run double while batting for Blackie. Whitey Lockman also homered for the losers.

Each team belted nine safeties in the second game, but the Giants wound up on top of an 8-5 score. Grady Hatton hit one for the distance for Cincinnati while Henry Thompson slammed a long drive into the rightfield stands for the Giants.

The Rhinelanders will rest up here today before taking on the Braves under the arcs at Boston tomorrow.

Connie Ryan, Cincinnati second baseman, added a fresh twist to the old hidden ball trick against the Giants. In the tenth inning of the first game, the Giants' Whitey Lockman reached with the potential tying run on a single and a sacrifice.

After the sacrifice play, Ryan returned to the bag and said: "Say, Whitey, would you mind stepping off for a minute. I want to straighten out the bag."

Whitey, obliged. Ryan tagged him with the hidden ball.

"Yer out!" yelled the ump. Whitey turned red.

THE TOAST of the baseball world today is Cliff Chambers, a somewhat secluded southpaw pitcher whose only previous claim to fame was his ability to throw a "duster" as expertly as the next. Chambers made history yesterday when he hurled a no-run, no-hit game, a feat no other Pittsburgh pitcher had been able to accomplish in the city's long tenure in the National League.

The no-hitter was the first fashioned in the majors since Vern Bickford of Boston's Braves did it against Brooklyn in a night game, Aug. 11, 1950.

Chambers handcuffed the Braves, 3-0. In the second game of a double header after Warren Spahn had blanked the Pirates, 6-0, in the opener.

The surprising St. Louis Cardinals thumped the Dodgers, 11-7, despite a home run with the bases full by Brooklyn's Pee Wee Reese. After blowing a 5-0 lead, the Redbirds bounced back with six in the eighth to overcome a 7-5 Brooklyn edge. The triumph gave the pacesetter Cards a half game bulge over the Braves.

Philadelphia and Chicago split a National League doubleheader. The Phils won the opener, 5-4 and the Cubs took the 10-inning nightcap, 9-7. A two-run double by Granny Hamner featured a four-run uprising in the sixth to give Bubba Church his second Philadelphia win the opener.

NEW YORK'S high-flying Yankees whipped the Tigers, 11-6, in Detroit for their eighth straight victory and increased their American League lead to two games over Cleveland.

Rookie Mickey Mantle led the Yanks' 12-hit assault on five Tiger hurlers with three hits and three runs batted in.

Washington and Cleveland split a doubleheader. Julio Moreno polished off the Indians with an 8-1 seven-hit job to win his first start of the season. Bob Chakales, spurred by a two-run homer by Al Rosen, won a 4-2 rookie duel

Moose Team Beaten By Blanchester, 10-8

The Washington C. H. Moose ball team lost a heart-breaker to the Blanchester Moose 10-8, on the Good Hope diamond Sunday afternoon.

A big sixth inning gave Blanchester a 9 to 2 lead but the Washington C. H. team came back in the bottom of the ninth inning and had the tying run on base when the third out was made.

Ray, of Blanchester, was the winning pitcher. He was nicked for eight runs on four hits and 12 walks. He fanned five.

K. Daves was the losing pitcher for the Washington C. H. team. He gave up eight runs on six hits and two walks and was credited with six strikeouts. B. Daves relieved his brother in the bottom of the sixth and had a record of two runs on six hits and seven strikeouts.

The Washington C. H. team will take on the Greenfielders there for the Greenfield opener next Sunday.

The WCH team lost their opener to the Jeffersonville team, 14 to 3 last Sunday.

from Washington's Bob Ross in the second game.

Chicago's White Sox swept two games from the Athletics, 4-1 and 8-3. Ken Holcombe won a five-hitter in the opener. Four Philly hurlers issued 15 walks, within three of the record, to make it easy for Chicago in the second game.

Ted Williams' home run in the 10th gave the Boston Red Sox a 5-4 first game victory over the Browns but St. Louis came back to win the second game, 8-2. Eight hit pitching by Al W. L. mar and a three-run homer by catcher Sherman Lollar gave the Browns the split.

Fish Taken from Paint Creek

"THE BIG ONE GOT AWAY." Charles Mann (right) said as he and Sam Speakman (left) displayed their string of catfish for a Record-Herald photographer. That one on Sam's end of the string weighed 18 pounds.

Charles Mann and Sam Speakman of Washington C. H., had quite a surprise Saturday morning when they ran their trawl on Paint Creek near Bainbridge and hauled in an 18 pound, two foot plus shovelhead catfish.

"The big one got away," Mann said. They were running the line when they felt a "big" one on one of the hooks. "It was bigger than this one," he said, "and we figured we had better pull this one in before backing the other one."

When they got the 18 pounder in the boat it snapped the line and the "big" one took off.

Officers Are Chosen By Motorcycle Club

Members of the Silver Rocket Motorcycle Club elected Tommy Meyers as president of the club at a recent meeting at Underwood's Garage.

The members also elected: Ed Pendergraft, vice president; Irma Ingram, secretary; Marie Myers, treasurer; Jim Merritt road captain; Gene Wieland, assistant road captain and Ray Shipley, referee. These officers are elected for a six month period.

A call meeting of the club will be held May 9, to select the insignia and color of the shirts for the club members.

won by Gib Bireley with 117.

Tony Capuana, who has been rounding up the scores for the month-long tourney, estimated that "at least 300 bowlers" took their cracks at the head pin.

The bowling leagues which have been going full blast at Bowland all winter are now approaching the windup. Some will roll their final matches this week, other will finish up week after next.

Then the alleys are to be closed until next August. During the lay-off, they are to be sanded and polished up for next winter.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Batting—Ted Williams, Red Sox and Virgil Stallcup, Reds—William's homer in 10th gave Boston 5-4 victory over the Browns in opener of their doubleheader. Stallcup's 10th inning homer gave Cincinnati 4-3 win over the Giants in their first game of twin bill.

Pitching—Cliff Chambers, Pirates—Became first pitcher in Pittsburgh's National League history to hurl a no-run, no-hit game when he accomplished the feat in defeating the Boston Braves, 3-0 in the second game of their doubleheader.

Horton Smith is the only golfer who has played every round of every Masters Tournament. He was the first Master champion.

Their scores were roundly applauded by the bowlers because 120 is the highest score possible in headpin matches.

Jeffersonville Wins From Hillsboro, 1-0

Successive doubles in the eighth inning after two were out gave Jeffersonville's Cub a 1 to 0 victory over Hillsboro at Jeffersonville Sunday afternoon.

The win was the second of the young season for the Cub without a defeat in the Southwestern Ohio League. Last Sunday, they romped over the Washington C. H. Moose to the tune of 14 to 3.

That left them at the top of the standing—with some company—with the season just getting under way.

Dumford, hurling for the Cubs, handcuffed the Hillsboro boys in holding them to four scattered hits. He whiffed five batters and gave up only three bases on balls.

Shaffer was just about as rough on the Cubs until the eighth frame. Then after two were down, Rinker doubled and Sharrett sent him home with the winning run with another two-bagger.

Next Sunday, the Jeffersonville boys will go to Wilmington for their third game of the season. The defeat handed them by the Cubs was the second in a row for Hillsboro. Last week, they were knocked off, 6 to 4, by Blanchester.

Lion Ball Team Faces Busy Days

Tournament Game To Determine Slate

The WHS Lion baseball squad today faced a busy week that is cluttered with "ifs".

They started it out by polishing up their bats for their second game in the central district class A tournament Monday afternoon on one of the OSU fields. Their opponents are the defending champions from Linden-McKinley.

The Lions won their first tourney game last week from Marion. Linden, after two games had been halted by rain with the score tied, finally swamped Circleville, 11 to 0, to remain in the tournament and meet the Lions.

The Lions also have four games remaining on their regular schedule, but how they fare in the tournament and what the weather does will have a bearing on when they are played.

They are booked for a return game in the SCO League with the Hurricane at Wilmington Tuesday afternoon. But, if they win from Linden, they will have to go back to Columbus to play Columbus Central on that day. If they get knocked off by Linden, the Lions will be out of the tourney and will go to Wilmington Tuesday afternoon as scheduled—if the weather holds out. The Lions turned back to Hurricane, 10 to 2, when the two teams met here earlier in the season.

After that, the boys of WHS have a chance to get revenge on one of the two teams that have taken their measure in the SCO to date when they go to Circleville to play the Tigers. Circleville beat the Lions here in their first meeting, 7 to 1. Greenfield's Tigers hold the other victory over the Lions.

Also on the WHS schedule are non-SCO games with Lohdon and Frankfort. The Lions beat Lohdon in the season's opener here, 7 to 1, behind the no-hit pitching of Kenney Robnett and Ivan Blair.

They edged Frankfort, 7 to 6, in the last game here before they started the district merry-go-round.

In a quick 24 hours we try to make up to her with flowers, candy and kind words for 364 days of neglect, partial neglect, or being taken for granted. (In Leap Years you can add an extra day.) With Mother's Day, 1951, at hand, we just want to remind our devoted readers not to forget that Mothers are pretty important people . . . and while most of them don't expect too much, they still like to get a pat on the back, a card or a small gift. And they certainly deserve it.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Shanks of Wilmington, O., wife and myself took off last Sunday and headed down through Chillicothe and followed winding Route 50 to Martinsburg, West Va. My good friend Trammel Hollis held his annual Hereford Sale on Monday. His farm is situated in the beautiful Shenandoah Valley. This valley is noted for its apples.

We drove up to the top of the mountain and looked across more than ten thousand acres of orchards and every single tree was in full bloom. A beautiful sight with Mother Nature arrayed in all her glory. Just another experience we'll store to remember again when we reach that rocking chair and chimney corner stage.

Those boys at Rotary Tuesday certainly proved anew that we still have freedom of speech in America. I'm afraid that's about all that was proved.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN
"A WONDERFUL client," Amos Holton said sadly. "Arranging divorce settlements alone kept us quite busy."

They were walking toward the front of the house when McGann heard the soft shush of light feet on the thick carpet and Chary Jones came down the stairs. She smiled with regained composure, the green-brown eyes bright with excitement, and laid a hand lightly on the arm McGann extended. He said, "Shall we join the ladies?" "Let's. And the men, too."

The gay wack struck them full as they entered the art gallery where it was centered, apparently in conformity with Tompkins' instructions. Now blue smoke stood in layers across the luxurious room. The seven lovely paintings glowed softly down from the walls and new light brackets lent aid to their struggle against the smoky haze.

Their entrance failed to interrupt an animated babble that rose from a score of men and women who stood or sat in the room. Over in the corner a white-jacketed butler was vigorously shaking a cocktail. The clinking of the ice was an off-beat to the music of the strolling troubadours who were working on "You Can't Marry Ten Pretty Girls."

"An oldie," McGann said. "I'll bet Tompkins ordered it." He hummed along with the guitar and accordion. "He died trying," he said. Her hand tightened on his arm.

"I'd like a cigarette, please." He held a light. Her full lips closed over the cigarette, left a bright red smear as they came away. A lot of the guests were admiring the various portraits and McGann turned Chary toward her own. They looked at the serene face with its faint smile. "Lovely girl," McGann said. "We should meet and start making beautiful Muzak together."

Her shoulders moved. "Perhaps it can be arranged. I'd suggest you take her for a ride in the park."

"Not unless I get to drive the horse." He looked around. A waiter in a short white jacket was slowly moving their way. McGann recognized Dink Wexton's lopsided grin. He grinned back at the reporter. "I trust you're car is paid up in the waiters' union?"

"Local 802.55 Wexton said. 'We may strike any minute for more money and shorter women.'"

Chary Jones listened to this exchange with a look of resigned calm. McGann introduced Wexton as an acquaintance in whose career he was interested. "He worked his way up from a busboy," he said proudly. "It proves that anything is possible in America."

"Really?" Chary Jones said. "How inspiring." She smiled and then moved gracefully away to look at the Kathleen Rogers portrait.

Wexton jerked his head toward the bartender. "That's Hymie, my photographer. He's got a Leica under the bar. When they're not looking he'll start shooting."

"That's wonderful," McGann said. He was really impressed. "Where's the help Holton thought he was hiring?"

"We gave them the night off at tripe time." There was a commanding cough behind them. Wexton said, "Here comes Counselor Jerk."

Holton had a light grip on the elbow of a willowy blonde. He gave Wexton a sharp look. "There are other guests, you know." The reporter said, "Yes, sir," and moved on. Holton told the blonde, "Miss Mars, this is Mr. McGann, the detective who is going to find the murderer of poor Mr. Tompkins."

"How exciting," Miss Mars said languidly. Her black gown was cut so low that McGann was afraid to look. The fingers holding the cocktail glass were heavy with jewels. "This is really an amazing coincidence," she added with more interest. "My latest picture was a murder mystery—'So Evil, My Eye. I do hope you saw it.'"

McGann shook his head sadly. "My doctor has forbidden me to attend the cinema," he said. "The features are all right but the trailers are too exciting." Chary Jones came back and he introduced the women, who looked at each other with undisguised curiosity.

"I've seen a lot of your pictures, Miss Mars," Chary said. "I thought the one with Boyer was marvelous."

"Sweet," Miss Mars said. "Isn't she sweet, Amos?" Holton agreed that Miss Jones was definitely sweet. McGann squeezed Chary's arm and insisted that he be allowed to vote, too.

They drifted toward the center of the room where a blonde in a red dress was talking animatedly to a darkly handsome man. She reached up and rubbed her palm along his cheek and by the gasp along McGann recognized Irma Nelson. When she turned he saw that her face was flushed and her eyes were unnaturally bright.

Irma seemed principally interested in Gladys Mars. She threw up a hand in exaggerated welcome. "Well, well, well," she said, "if it isn't Clara Kimball Young! How's everything on the old Essanay lot, Clara? How's Wally Reid?"

Gladys Mars smiled warmly. "Irma, darling," she said. "The moment I saw you I said 'What's missing?' and now I know. Your tray, darling. Where is your tray?"

"If I had one—around your neck," Irma sniffed and turned her attention to Amos Holton. McGann could not tell whether she overlooked him by accident or design. The dark, handsome man to whom she had been talking came over close to him and held out his hand slyly as if offering a bribe. "My name is Spanish," he said. "Solly Spanish." The tone was warmly confidential. This was inside stuff. Spanish tilted his glistening black head toward a laughing group in the corner.

"These citizens kill me. How can they be like this? The man's dead, right? So they should tone it down a little, right?"

McGann introduced himself but he shrugged off the question. "A lot of men have told their friends to celebrate instead of mourn," he said. "This is the sort of blowout Tompkins would like. He must be here in spirit."

Spanish's eyes showed white as his gaze slid around the room. "Go easy on that stuff, will ya, chum? I mean let's stick to what we know for sure." He took a fine linen handkerchief from his breast pocket and dabbed at his chin.

"Okay," McGann said. "What do we know for sure?" Spanish had nervously placed the handkerchief askew and McGann reached over casually with a forefinger and poked the white triangle farther down into the pocket. The movement told him what he had wanted to know—Spanish had a gun in a shoulder holster. "What I mean," McGann said, "is that while I don't believe in spiritualism exactly, one must always be prepared for all eventualities, mustn't one?"

"You said it, chum," Spanish agreed eagerly. An immaculate cuff flashed as he laid a hand across his breast. "Me, I'm just a New York boy trying to get along, right? No rough stuff!"

"Right."

The smoke in the room grew heavier, the beat of the music on "A Pretty Girl Is Like a Melody" was steady, insistent. McGann saw Hope Harmon in the corner demonstrating how she used to do the showgirl slink to that one. She still had a beautiful figure.

Frazier Farwell was in the group watching her. He held only a cigarette. McGann thought, Maybe he really meant 'never again.' A girl with bluish hair detached herself from the crowd and began to make her way across the room. McGann angled to head her off.

"Miss Rogers?"

She started and turned. She was wearing red-rimmed harlequin glasses but he could see that as in the portrait her eyes were big and alert. In her hand she held a long, red cigaretteholder. "Yes?"

He told her his name and she seemed to recognize it. "You could help me," he said ingratiatingly. "Really?" The eyes behind the upturning glasses were alert with suspicion. "How?"

"Were you at home yesterday about six-thirty?"

"Six-thirty?" A pale hand fluttered to the blue ringlets. "Why missing? and now I know. Your tray, darling. Where is your tray?"

"Splendid," McGann dropped his voice to a confidential level. "I understand your bedroom windows are across the court from the Tompkins study. Did you notice any activity over here then?"

"Activity?" She looked about as if hoping that something would occur to provide an escape. Then, "Why should I be looking over here?"

McGann shrugged. "Quite accidentally, I mean. Or you might glance out to see what's with the weather. You know."

For a moment she stared silently. "Mr. McGann, when I am getting dressed to go out, my blinds are closed. See what you can make of that." She glided away. (To Be Continued)

Officers Make Many Arrests

Two Drivers Held For Intoxication

Two men were arrested for driving while intoxicated, one for fighting, and others for traffic law violations over the weekend.

The police, state highway patrol and Sheriff Orland Hays shared the arrests.

Those picked up on driving while intoxicated were John H. Redfern, 27, Wilmington, who was involved in a wreck on the CCC Highway, west of Washington C. H., about 1:30 A. M. Sunday.

The complaint against him was filed by Betty Fields of Wilmington. Redfern later was released on $300 bond for appearance in police court here Monday.

The other man arrested for driving while intoxicated was Richard W. Hays, 67, Washington C. H., who was later released on $150 bond, and was to appear in police court Monday.

Sheriff Hays picked up Walden Glassburn, 35, of near Chillicothe, on a reckless operation charge. He was to appear to plead in police court Monday.

Police arrested Austin E. Oder, 25, Jamestown, on a charge of fighting. He was locked up until Monday.

The state patrol arrested Ralph C. Taylor, 24, Jamestown, for driving in excess of 70 miles per hour. He left $15 bail for appearance before Police Court Justice Richard R. Willis.

Sheriffs Seeking Member of Gang

Sheriffs Orland Hays of Fayette County, and Charles Radcliff of Pickaway County, were in southern Ohio Saturday, seeking Walter McClain of Mt. Joy (Scioto County).

He is wanted as a member of the gang of farm thieves who had been operating in several counties for many months. They failed to locate him.

McClain left home suddenly following arrest of Elmer (Ace) Rice of Sinking Springs, by Sheriff Orland Hays.

Sheriffs of several counties found some $2,000 worth of stolen property at the Rice and McClain homes.

Rice is still in jail here awaiting grand jury action, and is to be taken to the London Prison Farm this week for a lie detector test.

Mrs. Edward Rankin New PTA President

Mrs. Edward Rankin is the new president of the Jasper PTA.

She was elected at a meeting held Friday at the Jasper School.

Other officers elected were as follows: Vice president, Malcolm Gault, and secretary-treasurer, Ulric Allen.

The PTA gave eighth grade students from the Milledgeville School special recognition for their accomplishments during their terms in the school. The eighth graders were invited to a weiner roast, to be held at the home of Mrs. Bryan Leasure Tuesday.

A food auction and collection held Friday netted the PTA $50.-15. Entertainment for the evening was provided by Stephens and Co., magicians.

was generally known negotiations had been under way for some time. Nevertheless, the announcement of the arrival was published in extra editions of Reykjavik's newspapers.

Government Statement

The government statement threw little light on the mission of the Americans. It said only:

"When Iceland joined the Atlantic Pact, it agreed that if war broke out the allies would have a similar position in Iceland to that they had during the last war. But it was entirely up to Icelanders to say when such a position would be granted."

During World War II Iceland was major assembly point for convoys to Russia.

Members of Parliament's Democratic parties were consulted, the government said, and it was agreed now was the time to ask for defense forces. This island, with an area of 39,750 square miles and a population of only 140,000, has no army, navy, coast guard or air force of its own.

Ceiling Prices On Grocery Items

Retail grocers as well as wholesalers are required to put ceiling prices on a long list of standard grocery items May 14, according to district OPS director, Edward F. Wagner.

This means that all sellers have until the above date to calculate their prices on many items and determine their allowable ceiling prices under the regulation which effects them.

Grocers in this community can secure any information which they need from the Columbus District OPS office at 63 E. Gay Street.

The regulations are a further step in the stabilization of our economy.

Allies Push North

means who had been told there would be no big offensive because "the war is about over." UN intelligence officers attributed this statement to a Communist officer.

Report Not Clear

They did not make clear whether the officer was taken prisoner or whether the report came from other captured Reds. UN spokesmen offered no interpretation of the significance of the statement. Presumably the Red officer meant the war had again reached a stalemate; that neither side could win and therefore neither would open an all-out offensive.

Intelligence reports said the same officer reported Allied warplanes blocked Red efforts to get tanks from Manchuria to support the now halted Communist spring offensive.

Red transport kept rolling south despite the constant air punishment. More than 3,700 trucks were spotted Sunday. Far Eastern air forces called it an "all out Communist effort to resupply and re-equip their divisions along the battle line."

UN tank patrols probed through no-man's land trying to find the elusive Red divisions.

Reds Night Air Raids

The equally elusive Communist air force tried out night fighting jets, presumed to be a new type. Three of them made unsuccessful passes at a lone UN B-26 before dawn Sunday.

Similar attacks were made Monday morning. But air officers weren't certain it was the same type of plane. Far Eastern air force spokesmen made no attempt to describe the new jet until more is learned about it.

On the ground the Reds offered only spotty opposition to Allies slogging back over the same ground the Communists had taken in their costly nine-day offensive that began April 22.

About 500 North Koreans tried to stem the Allied advance in the Inje sector. But UN forces widened their bridgehead in Red Korea.

Old Offender Held To Grand Jury Here

Elder's bond was fixed at $500, and failing to give this, he was taken to the county jail to await grand jury action.

He was arrested over the weekend upon complaint of neighbors.

B-36 Bomber Crashes

dead were thrown clear. Crash crews had to prowl the mangled wreckage for the others.

Winds in excess of 40 miles an hour stirred up a billowing sandstorm and fanned the flames quickly to a parked C-54 air force transport and a small, private cargo plane.

Minutes before, the bomber caused windows to rattle and walls

Witnesses said the plane approached the east-west runway about 500 feet up. About halfway down the strip, the wingtip scraped the ground. The impact tore the propeller and cowl from the right outboard pushed-type engine and burst the right jet engine pod. A jet pod on a B-36 contains two auxiliary jet engines. There is one pod on each wingtip, some 230 feet apart.

The plane circled to the right. About three-fourths of the way around the circle, the right wing again dug in, the nose plowed down and the plane exploded. Bits of wreckage were strewn over a quarter-mile area.

The last and worst previous B-36 crash killed 14 men when a B-36 and F-51 fighter collided April 28 near Carney, Okla.
